Big Country, Big Wonders
Meet Another Octopus
Real for Him, He's Dead
I'll Make You Love Me

NATURE and Providence made [illegible] on a big scale Some [illegible] biggest things are still unknown to a majority of us. Pike's Peak, the Mississippi Niagara Falls and the oil deposits we all know. But few know about the great limestone caverns of [illegible] in New Mexico. An invitation to see the caverns from President Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific railroad gives the information.

You can put the national capitol into the biggest cave so far discovered and then have a Zeppelin sail over it without touching the roof.

Get your new car, drive out to see that cave, see other wonders in New Mexico and drive on to the Pacific coast and see the biggest thing of all, the Pacific ocean.

A NEW "OCTOPUS" is coming. Messrs. Eaton of the Republic Steel Campbell of the Youngstown company and Grace of Bethlehem Steel, are reported in New York planning a two-billion-dollar steel merger.

Once upon a time that would have set all the muckrakers to raking violently. And the supreme court would have said. "You must not do it you are growing too big."

But we have passed that stage, and have taken for our motto, "The bigger the better."

MANY THAT READ this call the unemployment problem "a passing thing" not too serious. It was quite serious for Harry Brucker, Hungarian shoemaker, who came to this country after the World war, found a job repairing shoes, then opened a little store and married. Twins were born, everything was promising.

Now the twins are near death in a hospital where the father, who attempted to kill them, is dying. The mother is dead, killed by her husband. Hard times closed the store, work could not be found. [illegible] his wife and the twins starved more or less for seven months, now it is over.

No "theory" about that.

RUSSIA IS MODERN. Gigantic agricultural machinery "combines" such as few American farmers have ever seen travel 50 or 100 miles in a straight line across immense wheat fields. What the Russians do is done on a gigantic scale. Now they are spending $45,000,000 on a powerful broadcasting wireless plan. They will broadcast their theories on government and the sins of "capitalism," and whether you like them or not, the theories will come rattling into your radio.

Making people listen, of course, will be another thing. But some will listen, especially in these times.

The effort of Stalin to make you like his theories reminds you of Frederick the Great's father, chasing little boys into a corner and beating them severely, saying, "I'll MAKE you love me."

MONEY is still lent in Wall street "on call" at one per cent. Two years ago nobody would have dreamed of such cheap money.

A few years hence many will wonder why they did not take advantage of it.

Otto H Kahn, who really understands finance, said last Wednesday "Two years from now, looking back, you will not believe that it was really possible to buy the [illegible] securities at the ridiculous

20 MEN AWAIT RESCUE FROM TUNNEL TRAP

Pipe Dropped Through Debris by Worker Provides Air Supply.

750 FEET UNDERGROUND

Made Prisoners by Cave-in of San Francisco Water Project.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Jan. 10—Trapped by a cave-in they were working to prevent, but saved from death by the quick wits of a fellow laborer, 20 men awaited deliverance today from a tunnel of the Hetch Hetchy municipal water project.

Rescue crews boring through the debris were impeded by new caveins as they retimbered the tunnel. Rescue operations began immedidiately after the first cave-in, which occurred early last night.

The slide, 400 feet from the east entrance, occurred near the spot where 12 men were killed by an explosion of methane gas in the tunnel last July.

The stretch where the men were working, 750 feet below the surface, is known as the most dangerous sections of the tunnel through the coast range, east of San Francisco.

The night shift was replacing weakened timbers of the tunnel when cracking timbers and falling rock warned them of the danger. The workers dropped their tools and fled. Several got out before the slide came.

The lives of those who were trapped probably were saved by the presence of mind and daring of Welby Morgan, 28, one of those who escaped. With the first warning of falling rock, he seized a 20-foot length of four-inch iron pipe and dropped it in what he thought would be the center of the cave-in. His guess was right, the pipe extending entirely through the 16 feet of debris and furnished air to his entrapped fellows.

The workmen had scarcely broken for freedom when the roof caved in. None was reported seriously injured.

RESCUE TASK SLOW

Hours To Elapse Before Men Are Removed, Is Report.

By United Press

LIVERMORE, Calif., Jan. 10 — Announcement was made at the portal of the Mitchell tunnel at 10 A. m. (Marion time) today that it would be "at least another five hours" before rescue of the 20 entombed workmen could be effected.

The latest word from the interior of the long tunnel, putting the estimated time for the rescue at about noon, was given out by Clark M. J. Lyons of the Hetch Hetchy project.

GIRL FLIERS FINISH ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Cracked Piston Forces California Pair Down After 122 Hours Aloft.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper, both in their middle twenties, rested today after having established a new women's endurance flight record of 122 hours, 50 minutes.

The girls landed unexpectedly at 5:20 p. m. yesterday, ending their flight because of a cracked cylinder in the 170-horsepower motor of their small monoplane, the Lady Rolph. They almost tripled the former women's record of 42 hours, 16 minutes set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith, of New York.

As fresh as though the five-day flight had been only a pleasure spin of a few minutes duration, Bobbie and Edna each had a "glad to be back" and a "hated to come down" for the startled crowd.

The end of the flight came so suddenly that those on the ground did not realize it was over until the Lady Rolph had coasted to a quick halt on the sluggish runway and the fliers jumped out into the mud.

"The motor wouldn't turn enough revolutions to gain altitude," Miss Trout, one of the few women who hold a transport pilot license, said, "and it began missing, so down we came."

The motor began to falter just after they had ridden out one of the most severe storms ever to beset endurance fliers.

Promoters of the flight said they ordered the girls to land because householders near the airport were objecting to their low flying.

START FLIGHT FROM BERMUDA TO AZORES

MacLaren and Mrs. Hart Take Off on 2,042-Mile Leg of Ocean Trip.

By The Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 10—The monoplane TradeWind hopped off for the Azores at 11:15 a. m. (Marion time) on the second lap of a "pay load" flight from New York to Paris.

Local weather conditions were favorable as Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren took off on their 2,000-mile all-water hop across the Atlantic.

Mrs. Beryl Hart, 27-year-old widow, and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, naval reserve officer, planned their "pay load" flight to Paris last fall with the idea of demonstrating that ocean flying could be "taken out of the stunt class and put on a sound commercial basis."

Their initial attempt to reach Bermuda, first of two ocean stops, ended in failure when they were compelled to return to the American coast after nearly reaching their objective in a flight from North Beach, Long Island. A broken sextant made navigation difficult and they feared missing Bermuda in misty weather.

That was on Jan. 3. Four days later, after minor repairs had been made to their plane and a new sextant obtained, they again took off for Hamilton, making the flight easily in six hours and fifty-five minutes from Norfolk.

The hop to the Azores, 2,042 miles, is the longest one scheduled. From there the aviators plan a direct flight to Paris, 1,520 miles.

URGES PUBLIC DROUTH PLEA

Red Cross Head Advises Hoover To Ask $10,000,000 for Relief.

SAYS NEED INCREASING

House Leaders Take Steps To Shove Loan Fund Bill Through to Vote.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The Red Cross and administration leaders in the house took special steps today to bring relief to farmers suffering from the drouth.

A public appeal for $10,000,000 was recommended to President Hoover by the former, through its national chairman, John Barton Payne.

Chairman Wood, of the house appropriations committee, announced special legislative status would be sought for the $60,000,000 loan fund appropriation bill to get it into conference with the senate.

To Get Right-of-way

An effort to accomplish this object by unanimous consent failed again. A special rule is to be formulated by the rules committee on Monday, giving the measure the right-of-way.

The controversy hinges on the senate's amendment for $15,000,000 to be loaned to farmers of the drouth area for purchases of food for themselves and their families.

On leaving, he emphasized that the Red Cross "has not and will not set a certain figure for nationing sufferers from the drouth.

"The needs in each individual case are investigated by local chapters and orders are given on stores for food, the recipient of Red Cross aid then buys his own food and Red Cross supervision immediately ceases."

Get Another Chance

Representative Wood declined to agree to seek a special rule for the drought loan bill until the house had been given another chance to agree unanimously to sending it to conference. Representative LaGuardia, Republican, of New York, who has objected to this procedure in the past days, insisted again today in his effort to obtain a vote on the food loan amendment, he wants it made applicable to urban as well as rural districts.

Democrats, lead by Representative Parks of Arkansas, joined LaGuardia today in objecting to Wood's request for unanimous consent.

Report Another of Italian Fleet Lost

By The Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 10—A radio message from Natal today said the Italian airplane piloted by Commander Baistrocchi, in General Italo Balbo's trans-Atlantic flight, sank off Fernando Do Noronha island this afternoon as it attempted to take off for Natal where the rest of the fleet is waiting. The crew was saved. This was the plane which had been forced down in the ocean at St. Paul's rocks and was towed to Fernando Do Noronha by the Italian destroyer Provenzano.

Famous Painter Lived in Marion County as Youth

KARL ANDERSON, whose exhibition of pastels of Canada opens at the Grand Central Art galleries in New York City on Tuesday was at one time a resident of Caledonia, as was his brother, Sherwood Anderson, famous novelist.

These interesting facts were brought to light this morning following an Associated Press announcement of the opening of the Anderson pastel exhibit.

Karl Anderson was the eldest of seven children. In Caledonia their father, I. M. Anderson, was a harness maker. The family lived on the site of the present home of C. E. Kelly on South Main street, and Anderson, senior, occupied several business places in carrying on his harness business.

• • •

THE Andersons lived in Caledonia for five years and moved to Clyde, O., where Karl Anderson was apprenticed as a harness maker. This was years ago, before Sherwood Anderson had begun to take an interest in writing and water color, and Karl Anderson had begun to think seriously of art as his life work. Sherwood Anderson has turned country newspaper proprietor.

In 1910 Karl Anderson won the silver medal at Carnegie with "The Idlers." The Chicago Art Institute bought the picture. With this and several portrait commissions from Charles Dawes, he was established as a painter.

MAY ASK SENATE TO OUST JAMES J. DAVIS

Senator Nye Threatens To Renew Long Battle Over Pennsylvania Seat.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Pennsylvania's senate seat, now held by James J. Davis, and long vacant while the conflict over William S. Vare raged, again is threatened.

Because expenditures of the Republican ticket upon which Davis was elected reached a sum placed by Chairman Nye of the campaign funds investigating committee at about $1,200,000, the North Dakota senator has announced he will introduce a resolution to unseat the former labor secretary.

His action, said Nye yesterday, will come, probably in a little more than a week, as soon as the committee has completed its Pennsylvania investigation and report and after other pressing business is disposed of.

"On the record as it stands now, I don't see how I could be consistent and refrain from offering such a resolution if others do not do it," he said.

"It is not a pleasant thing but the only thing to do. This will be a determined move and more than a gesture. The senate at least should be given an opportunity to vote upon it."

Davis withheld comment.

Nye's announcement was one more worry for the administration leaders who are seeking by every means to avert an extra session. Last night a late session was held to dispose of one controversy and more night meetings are in prospect.

Sunday Marks Second Week in Church Drive

Sunday will mark the second week in "Go-to-Church month," a movement which the Marion County Ministerial association is sponsoring. All but a few of the 46 churches in the county, including Marion city churches are participating in the month's campaign to increase church attendance, a check with the association secretary shows.

"Go-to-Church" month is an effort on the part of the ministers of the county to increase attendance at all Sunday services. The association has laid no definite plan by which the the churches may make this gain, but has left this matter entirely to the individual ministers.

As near as possible, 100 per cent attendance is desired this month in Bible school, morn-

DECISION MADE IN OHIO BELL PHONE CASE

Value of Rate Purposes Set at $104,282,735 by State Commission.

AFTER SIX-YEAR INQUIRY

Company's Book Value Appraisal Reduced $1,543,348 in Final Figure.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10— Properties of the Ohio Bell Telephone company were valued at $104,282,735, in a tentative valuation announced today by the state utilities commision.

The decision was on the statewide investigation of the Ohio Bell rates started at the initiative of the commission on Oct. 14, 1924, after 43 applications for advanced rates had been filed by Bell concerns. The state and the company have 30 days in which to file a protest to the valuation.

The tentative valuation, which will be used as a basis for rate making should it become permanent, includes all the physical properties of the telephone company that are used and useful in the service of the public.

Long Period of Inquiry

Today's decision climaxed more than six years of hearings and engineering investigations by the commission.

The tentative valuation, which is as of June 30, 1925, the date specified by the commission when it ordered the statewide investigation, affects telephones in 48 cities and all toll lines under control of the Ohio Bell.

The tentative valuation is $1 543,348 68 less than the book value set up by the Ohio Bell and which it offered to accept as a basis for the rates last April. The offer was rejected by the state.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, in commenting on the commission's findings, said the tentative valuation would require a revision downward because it still is $20,000,000 above the figure claimed by the state.

"The commission," Bettman said,

PRESIDENT PREPARES TO ANSWER SENATE

Prompt Turn Down Call for Return of Power Nominations Indicated.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—President Hoover informed senate leaders he expected to reply today to the resolution requesting the return of three power commissioners' nominations. Mr. Hoover also indicated quite clearly that he did not intend to comply.

The commissioners are Chairman George Otis Smith of Maine, Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana, and Claude L. Draper of Wyoming. They previously were confirmed by the senate and have taken office.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, was prepared to keep the senate in session today awaiting the reply of Mr. Hoover. It is expected at the capitol to be a signal for a new battle between the President and the coalition of senate Democrats and Republican independents.

The President asked Attorney General Mitchell for an opinion even before the senate resolution reached his desk. The latter dropped all else at once.

Meanwhile, advocates of the motion for recall—sponsored by Walsh, Democrat, Montana—were considering plans for further action in event the president rejects the request which was adopted yesterday.

The senate wishes to reconsider because the commissioners—Chairman George Otis Smith, and Commissioners Draper and Garsaud, dismissed Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Chief Accountant William King, almost immediately after they assumed office.

The senate's action in voting to recall the nominations by a vote of 44 to 37 is unprecedented so far as senate records go.

STUDENTS TO TAKE PART IN CONTEST

Smith-Hughes Pupils in County Schools To Participate Jan. 21.

Students in the eight Smith-Hughes agriculture classes in Marion county high schools are busy preparing for the vocational agriculture public speaking contest, which will get under way here Jan 21 when contestants from six counties, comprising the sixth district, will vie for the district championship at the Central Junior school building.

Elimination contests in various schools to select the one contestant each class is permitted to enter are now under way in Marion county schools. If every class in the district is represented, 22 farm youths will contend in the district meet here.

C B Rayburn, county superintendent of schools, is one of a committee of two in charge of the district contest. The other member is J. H Lintner of Fredericktown.

Marion, Morrow, Wyandot, Crawford, Delaware and Knox counties comprise the sixth district.

The youths are permitted to speak briefly on any one of 25 farm subjects. The winner of the district contest will receive a bronze medal offered by the state department, a small cash award, and will go to Columbus Feb. 4 during Farmers' week for the state contest at Ohio State university. Winner in the state contest will go to a regional meet at Springfield, Mass., and the regional winners will run off the national finals at Kansas City.

Prof. A. C. Kennedy of Ohio State university will judge the local district contest.

Marion county produced the state champion in the second contest of this kind last year. He is Robert Millisor of LaRue, who won the district and state championships, and finished third in the regional matches.

The district program will be enlivened by a number of selections by the Future Farmers' band, Superintendent Rayburn said. The band will also furnish music at the state contest at Ohio State university Feb. 4.

Marion county's eight Smith-Hughes departments are located at Waldo, Prospect, Pleasant, LaRue, Agosta, Green Camp, Martel and Caledonia high schools. Departments at Agosta and Green Camp are combined as are the Martel and Caledonia departments.

BROTHER OF MARION MAN ROBBED, SLAIN

Harry Weller of North Main street is awaiting news from Pittsburgh police on their probe of the murder of his brother, William Weller, 64. By International News Service

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 10—Damage of a fire which destroyed eight buildings in the village of Jeromesville, nine miles southeast of here, and for a time threatened the entire community, was estimated at $75,000 today.

The blaze started in the basement of a garage from a defective wire, firemen said. Fire departments from Mansfield, Ashland, Wooster and Hayesville were called to battle the flames and saved the village from total destruction.

The buildings destroyed by the flames were Ewing Hardware Store Company, which operated the garage where the fire started; the storage garage owned by Clarence Carl in which 20 cars were parked; Carl's home and implement shop; the dwellings owned by E. D. Austin and Mrs. John Wolf, and two barns.

MONEY, RINGS STOLEN FROM MARION NURSE

Miss Helen Grubaugh Hit Over Head as She Enters Car.

UNCONSCIOUS WHEN FOUND

Unknown Assailant Uses Hammer; Fur Coat Saves Life.

A fur collar pulled around her head today was believed to have saved the life of Miss Helen Grubaugh, 25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grubaugh, of 579 West Columbia street, was robbed by an unknown assailant about 7:30 o'clock last night at Delaware, where she is a nurse in Jane Case hospital.

Struck With Hammer

The attacker, evidently hidden in the rear of the girl's Pontiac coach, struck Miss Grubaugh in the back of the head with a hammer, but the collar is believed to have softened the blow and to have saved the girl's life. She was rendered unconscious.

The attack occurred as the girl was leaving the hospital on her way downtown, and the machine stopped under a viaduct of the Hocking Valley railroad where the small son of L. W. Abbott of Delaware, a passing motorist, noticed the girl's head hanging from a window of the car.

Abbott investigated his son's discovery and reported to police, who rushed the girl to the hospital, which is several hundred yards from the scene of the attack.

Miss Grubaugh was gagged when Abbott discovered her limp body. She was bleeding slightly from the blow on her head.

Condition Improved

Dr. Floyd Miller, attending physician, immediately took an X-ray of the skull, but no fracture was found.

Hospital attaches today reported Miss Grubaugh's condition improved, although she was unable to tell what had happened.

The attacker evidently hid in the car as it was parked near the hospital, which is in a dimly lighted section of the city. The scene of the attack also was on a dark street, although the latter is a state highway.

The girl wore several rings, which were stolen by the attacker. Her money also was believed stolen.

LAUER NAMED ON 2 HOUSE COMMITTEES

Marion County Representative Placed on Highway and Labor Groups.

Edward F. Lauer of Prospect, Marion county representative in the state general assembly, yesterday was appointed to two house committees by Speaker Arthur Hamilton of Lebanon.

Lauer, a Democrat, was given membership on the highways and labor committees. Representative Forney of Hancock county is chairman of the first committee and Representative Marshall of Cincinnati is the labor committee chairman.

Russell H. Kier of Wyandot county was appointed to the federal relations and finance committees, and Representative O. E. Brenneman of Morrow county was placed on the taxation committee, one of the most important of the committees. Brenneman also was appointed on the committee on benevolent and penal institutions.

Representative Lines of Hardin county and Representative Gault of Union county were named on the finance committee with Kier.

Speaker Hamilton appointed Representative William L. Guard of Urbana as chairman of the house temperance committee.

The makeup of this committee, of which eight of the 13 members are believed to be dry, presages hard sledding for any anti-prohibition legislation in the house, according to Associated Press reports. Guard himself has definitely aligned himself with the drys. He is a minister.

GALION, ASHLAND TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

PRESIDENTS FLASH IMPROVED PLAY, BUT LOSE BATTLE 23-16

Hilltoppers Finish Strong To Hand Harding Second N. C. O. Defeat of Year.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

In spite of the fact that the team displayed a vastly improved brand of basketball over that shown in previous games, Harding High school's President cagers suffered another defeat last night, this one at the hands of Ashland. The final count was 23 to 16.

The failure of the locals to upset the Ashland club and gain the initial victory of the season can be traced to inability to connect with the net for anything like a high percentage of shots. Of 31 attempted field goals Harding scored but a half dozen, four of these coming in the first half. The Presidents also failed to register points on six out of ten charity tosses.

N. C. O. STATISTICS

	W.	L.	P.	O.P.	Pct.
Galion	2	0	53	39	1.000
Ashland	2	0	53	32	1.000
Shelby	1	1	45	19	.500
Mansfi'ld	1	1	26	31	.500
Harding	0	2	26	26	.000
Bucyrus	0	2	33	49	.000

Nick Dolby, star guard of the Ashland five got the home team off to a big start in the first period when he looped a pair of two pointers in rapid succession just as the game got under way. Immediately after this the game was over for the first quarter as far as either team was concerned. The Hilltoppers elected to play a stalling game and for six of the eight minutes of play passed the ball around in back court without either team as much as threatening to register points. The period ended with the count 4-0 for Ashland.

Morgan Scores First

Jack Ling, elongated Harding center and Dick Morgan, midget forward, pooled their efforts at the opening of the second period to deadlock the count at 4-all, each contributed one field goal. For the remainder of the second period the teams battled each other on even terms, the scoring lead changing

HOT STOVE LEAGUE
SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

WE RENEW our hopes for a fairly creditable Harding record in basketball this season! It is quite possible that within the short space of a few weeks these hopes will be dashed to pieces by a continuation of defeats for the Presidents but just at present it looks like the Church street outfit might snap out of their lethargic state and do a little something.

Why all this sudden outburst of enthusiasm concerning Harding? But don't ask that, I can't answer that myself, at least not very accurately.

The truth is that the Presidents didn't look like the same team last night that took the floor a week ago against Mansfield . . . don't say it's funny, they didn't look worse either. The play of the Presidents was much improved despite the fact that they were beaten by the convincing margin of seven points.

A lot of obvious faults will have yet to be corrected before the locals manage to do very much as far as winning games is concerned but most of these faults should be ironed all within the next week of practice. At least all but one and that is the inability to hit the net for points, a detail which most persons conseder of more than trival importance in an average basketball game. Perhaps the Presidents will be able to get their shooting eyes trained on the basket within a short time. Whenever they do Harding will start winning basketball games

WANTS COURT OPPONENTS

The Lincoln Billiards basketball team of Lakewood, O., would like to book games with any fast basketball club in or around Marion. A home and home arrangement is desired by the upstaters. Managers of interested local teams should get in touch with Bill Simmons of 14914 Arden avenue, Lakewood.

MORRAL HOLDS LEAD WITH 22-21 VICTORY OVER PLEASANT FIVE

BY BOB BYRD

The Morral quintet successfully defended their position at first place in the west section of the county by beating the Pleasant five by a score of 22-21. It was the third of a series of unbroken victories for the home team.

Morral held the lead throughout the game, although outplayed in the last half by the visitors. Once accustomed to the small floor of the Morral gym, the Pleasant five became over-anxious to win, and ruined their chances for victory by frequent wild passes and shots.

Heller, star Morral forward, maintained his high scorer standing in the west section by chalking up eight points. He was withdrawn in the last quarter on fouls.

Pleasant girls lost by a decisive score of 24 to 14, with Holdridge, Morral center, leading the scoring with 10 points. The sextet from Pleasant displayed better individual ability than the Morral girls but lacked cooperation.

Prospect went on a scoring rampage in the boys game against LaRue on the latter's court last night and swamped the tailenders, 48 to 26 in a lop sided game. Keller, a forward on the winning combination collected the total of 18 points on eight field goals and two free throws.

Prospect led the game in every period and was never hard pressed to win.

The LaRue girls fell before the Prospect lassies by a lop sided count of 30 to 18. Kyle of Prospect staged another of her regular point getting sprees netting a total of 20 points.

Splits Twin Bill

Kirkpatrick splits a twin bill with Caledonia, the girls winning 18 to 17 while the boys were being beaten 19 to 13.

The girls' game was close, the count being tied at the ends of both the first and second periods. Caledonia took a slight lead in the third period but lost it in the last frame.

The boys' game was also deadlocked most of the time but Caledonia put on the stronger finish and took the decision.

Honors Divided

In a non-league double engagement, Green Camp divided honors, winning the girls' game 12 to 9 and losing the boys' decision 18 to 11.

Martel also clashed with a pair of non-league foes, winning both of the games with the Marion Business College. The Business boys led Martel at the half but slumped late in the game and were beaten. The Martel girls emerged winners by a single point margin over the female bookkeepers. Disterdick of the losing team looped a one-handed goal just as the gun cracked to end the game but it was only a one-pointer

LEN HARVEY BEATEN IN U. S. FIGHT DEBUT

England Middleweight Loses Unpopular Decision to Vince Dundee.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Len Harvey of England, recipient of one of the best boxing ballyhoos of the winter, seems to have convinced some 10,000 New York fans that he deserved all the kind words that have been said and written about him, but he lost his first fight here.

Harvey, making his debut at Madison Square garden last night, lost a close, unpopular decision to Vince Dundee, Baltimore middleweight, by the unanimous vote of the officials after 12 stirring rounds.

The Englishman went to work early and floored Dundee twice in the first round but while the customers were still shouting for a quick knockout he settled back into defensive boxing and the rugged Dundee wore him down with a steady punching drive and snatched the decision with a fine last round rally.

Brooklyn Club Cinches First Half Pro Crown

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — The Brooklyn Visitations have captured the first half championship of the American professional basketball league.

A 30-23 victory over the Rochester Centrals last night clinched the pennant for the Visitations. Even should they lose to Rochester Sunday night while Fort Wayne beats Chicago in the final game of the first half of Wednesday, the Visitations still would finish on top.

Irish Shake Jinx to Win from Zanesville Five

ART O'KEEFE LEADS PAROCHIAL CLUB TO DECISIVE 26-11 WIN

St. Mary Quintet Works Smoothly in Defeat of St. Thomas Cage Team.

BY KARL R. McELROY

ST MARY'S basketeers last night found their stride on the Star auditorium court and St. Thomas of Zanesville fell before a well-organized offense, 26 to 11.

Not only was the contest a victory over the Zanesville net swishers, but it also marked another win in the battle the local Irish have been staging with Old Man Jinx. It gave them two victories in a row after dropping five straight.

O'Keefe was the high point man of the contest. He warmed up to the scoring job in the last half and counted 12 points for the game. Jack Bintz was good for six points to take second honors for the locals while T. Joseph scored three points to lead the visiting quintet.

The ragged offensive playing which has characterized the early games of the season was gone in last night's fray. The team clicked more like a smooth scoring machine and showed promise of developing even further as the season progresses.

Close defensive playing marked the first quarter and neither team received many good shots. O'Keefe's free throw was the only marker scored in the opening stanza.

O'Keefe, Fye and Jack Bintz found the bucket as the second period opened and ran Marion's score up to nine points before Zanesville discovered that the ball would pass through the nets. A few seconds before the half closed, Kenney scored a bucket for the visitors.

The third period was almost a duplication of the preceding session with Bob Bintz and Sheehe joining the select list of scorers. Drefel counted for Zanesville.

Zanesville got going in the final session but too late to do damage of any consequence. Each team scored seven points.

The lineups:

Two B. A. A. Quints To O Cage Season Tonight

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—Two Buckeye Athletic association teams will play their first conference games of the season tonight.

Miami, reputed to have a team to be reckoned with, will play Ohio Wesleyan at Oxford. Wesleyan defeated Depauw this week, promising a stiff test for Miami in its first game.

Denison, backed by a string of pre-conference defeats, meets the Cincinnati Bearcats at Cincinnati. The record of Cincinnati is equally unimpressive and the game is a tossup.

TYGERS BEATEN BY ORANGEMEN 21 TO 13

Shelby Forced to Limit To Defeat Revamped Bucyrus Lineup.

Galion and Shelby ran true to predicted form last night by handing defeats to Mansfield and Bucyrus in games played on the Shelby and Mansfield courts. Galion beat Mansfield 21 to 13 while Shelby was edging Bucyrus in a tight battle 19 to 17.

The Galion victory keeps the Orangemen as co-leaders in the circuit with two wins and no defeats. Ashland shares the lead.

• • •

COACH CHICK YOUNG directed his Shelby charges into the victory side of the N. C. O. league cage ledger in the second league start of the season last night although he met considerable opposition from an opposing Bucyrus outfit. Picked before the game to hand the Bucyrus outfit a fairly decisive beating the Whippets were forced the limit to eke out a two-point win over the opposing Redmen. The final count was 19 to 17 and the score is an excellent indication of how hard fought the battle was.

Led on offense by the ever brilliant Culbertson, and paced on defense by Peters, the Shelby crew jumped into slight lead at the start of the game. Both quintets played a close guarding contest in the first period, neither of them trying overly hard to run up the scoring count. Shelby led at the quarter 3-2.

The Whippets broke loose in the second frame and started to marking up points in the scoring column at such a dizzy pace that by half time they were leading the visitors 11 to 4.

Bucyrus came back stronger in the third period and brought the score to within striking distance of the leaders by the end of the period.

In the final quarter the Redmen threatened seriously to slap another defeat onto the Shelby five, running the score to within two points of a deadlock before time halted the contest.

The Bucyrus coach used a lineup in the Shelby game much different from that which took the floor the preceding week against Ashland. Talbott, formerly a forward was back at a guard post while two former regulars, Clady and LaPointe were warming the bench. Both were injected into the fray after the start of the game. Their successors, Pope and Miller gave a fairly good account of themselves at the forward posts.

The lineups and summary:

Murphymen Fight Hard, bu Succumb in Final Period of Play.

A FIGHTING quintet of i dividuals representing Man field High school gave the leag leading Galion five a terrific ba tle on the Tyger floor last nigh before succumbing to the superi attack of the Orangemen in th final period, losing the game to 13.

Before the start of the gan none but the most rabid Mansfie fan would have picked the Tyge men to do more than hold the su posedly far stronger Galion five a low score. At the end of fo quarters of hard-fought, rough ar tumble basketball, there we many who thought the Orangem did well to win the game by ar margin at all.

Mansfield found the scoring diff cult in the opening half as th much taller Galion players block every effort to work the ball in u der the basket for sucker shot As a result Galion was leading th losers by an 11 to 6 score at th half.

The Tyger sharpshooters l loose a barrage of long range sho in the second half that all b wiped out the Galion lead befo the end of the quarter. The sco at the end of the third period w 13-12 for Galion.

Galion again took command the situation in the final peri and held the Tygers to a sing fally while scoring eight points f its own cause.

Fouls were numerous througho the game. Goldsmith of Galio went to the showers in the fir half and McKinney and Brand of Mansfield left by the same rou later in the contest.

Dempsey Flashes Former Punch in Short Bout

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 10—Jack Dempsey is still a first class fighting man.

Nearly 10,000 sports fans last night saw a flash of the old time Manassa mauler as Dempsey, angered by a blow from a bulky wrestler in a match he was refereeing, lashed out a right that drove the offender rolling to the canvas. The victim was Billy Edwards, Kansas City heavyweight.

Stripped of his shirt and silk undershirt torn by Edwards' pawing, Jack for the moment was again the man who won the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

The roar of the crowd was like that of one viewing a million-dollar fight spectacle. Its rush for the tattered shreds of Dempsey's shirt was that of hero-worshiping souvenir hunters. Women joined in the battle for mementoes, featuring Edwards and Jim O'Dowd.

Dempsey was warned other referees had had difficulties here.

"I don't want to hurt anybody," he replied, "but I'm not going to stand up in front of a crowd like this and let some fellow punch me around. I'll tap him back."

The wrestlers panted and heaved through two falls, Edwards tore a shirt off the ex-champion's back as Dempsey broke their holds in the second fall. The Kansas Citian then tore Jack's silk underwear and all but pulled it off.

Dempsey's ire obviously mounted. Edwards clamped a headlock on O'Dowd for the third and deciding fall. Dempsey patted Edwards' back in token of victory. Edwards continued his hold. Dempsey jerked him to his feet, Edwards swung, grazing Jack's right cheek.

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Eggs dropped another cent today to land at a price range of 29 to 33 cents a dozen. Wholesale prices on butter and eggs have reduced the farm income from these sources to a very low figure, as grocers are paying lowest prices in years.

Oranges are cheaper, with the best sizes and grades selling at not more than 55 cents. The best Florida varieties sell around 40 cents.

Fruit and vegetable prices remained about the same today with the exception of Saturday specials offered by a number of grocers.

Probe Airplane Crash Fatal to Three Men

By International News Service

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10—Three men were dead today and a fourth was suffering from critical injuries as authorities opened an investigation of an airplane crash which late yesterday interrupted events in the All-American air meet.

The speeding plane which plunged to earth near the race course was not an entrant in the events. The craft was demolished and the engine buried itself deep in the soft ground.

From the wreckage police took the bodies of James W. Riddle, 28, pilot of the craft; Robert W. Smalley, 22, owner of the plane, and Dr. Harry A. Ware. Dr. David A. Smalley, 54, was injured seriously. All the victims were prominent Chicagoans.

DEGREE CONFERRED

The Master Mason degree was conferred on one candidate at the meeting of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., last night in the Masonic temple. The entered apprentice degree will be conferred at the next meeting in one week and in two weeks the fellowcraft degree will be conferred on a class of candidates.

FOREIGN SALES LIFTS WHEAT

Other Grains Tend Downward on Report of Argentine Surplus.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Foreign buying today of old May wheat here lifted that delivery to the highest price since before Christmas. The buying was apparently to even up previous speculative sales. Otherwise, all grains tended downward early, influenced by reports that the Argentine and Australian exportable wheat surplus would equal 1,000,000 bushels a day for the ensuing 12 months. Opening at ¼ cent off to 1⅛ up wheat advanced further for old crop months, whereas July declined. Corn started ¼@¾ cents off, and subsequently sagged further.

hands repeatedly. The count was knotted 9-9 at the end of the half.

Ashland launched another attack on the Harding goal in the third period and regained the lead soon after the opening of the half. Despite a couple of threatened rallies on hte part of the Bohyermen, the Starn coached outfit retained the lead during the rest of the contest.

Six More Points

Over-anxiousness to score points for the Presidents caused the Harding men to neglect the guarding of their own goal late in the fray, with the result that Ashland men slipped through to score a trio of goals to run up the count on the locals.

Don Lindsey put on a whirlwind finish for the Presidents. He collected a field goal and three charity tosses, all within the last few minutes of play.

EGGS DROP 2 CENTS TO FEATURE MARKET

Retail Here at 30 to 34 Cents a Dozen; Tomatoes Boost.

A two-cent drop in egg prices and a radical change in tomato quotations featured this week's trading in retail produce markets.

With egg prices generally unsettled, the local market dropped prices two cents to quote eggs at 30 to 34 cents a dozen, retail.

Disappearance of California tomatoes, formerly selling at 20 cents a pound, and the marketing of hothouse varieties at 35 cents a pound was a change made during the week.

New large heads of cauliflower are retailing as high as 45 cents a head, on account of their size. Large sizes in head lettuce has extended the price range as high as 18 cents. Smaller heads sells at 10 cents.

Butter lost one cent during the week, to land at a range of 33 to 38 cents a pound.

California celery at eight to 10 cents a stalk has replaced New York Pascal celery here.

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

BY HALLIE HOUCK

JOHN BARRYMORE'S silent triumph, "The Sea Beast," has been filmed again, this time as an all-talking picture and been named "Moby Dick." The picture shows at the Ohio Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. "A whale of a picture" is a slangy description, but that's what it is. It's a big picture, first, and secondly, "Moby Dick" is the name given a mammoth white whale that terrorizes the seas.

Herman Melville's exciting novel, "Moby Dick" is the story background. It remains for Barrymore's acting soul to make it the outstanding picture, critics have proclaimed the show.

Joan Bennett plays the role of "Faith," the girl who loves "Ahab," played by Barrymore. In "The Sea Beast," Dolores Costello played this role, and audiences marveled at the beauty of the love scenes between Dolores and John Not long after, their engagement was announced and now she is Mrs John Barrymore.

"Moby Dick," the great whale of the North Atlantic, was immortalized by Melville in his novel. The whale was white and of great size, with a peculiar hatred of whalers and whaling ships. For centuries he is said to have appeared and disappeared until he became a legend of the sea and formed the basis for the great novel.

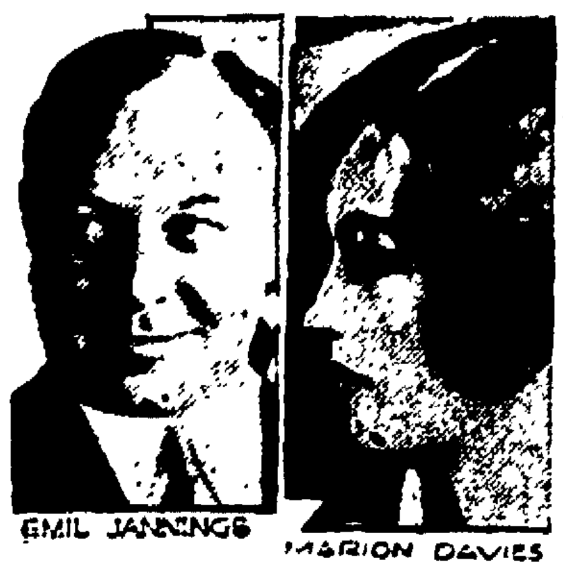
EMIL JANNINGS IN FIRST TALKIE

Another great star of the silent screen has mastered the English language and is returning to the American screen. Emil Jannings, great German star, with Marlene Dietrich, the recent import from



EMIL JANNINGS MARION DAVIES

Germany, come to the Palace Sunday and Monday in "The Blue Angel." The picture is a German production, made before Marlene came to the United States and made her first pitcure here, "Morroco."

Jannings made some wonderful pictures in the old silent days when it didn't make any difference what he said. Recall his "Way of All Flesh," "Sins of the Fathers," "The Last Command" and "The Patriot?"

Heinrich Mann who wrote the story upon which "The Blue Angel" is based, is rated in literary circles as one of the greatest living German novelists. Josef Von Sternberg was permitted by the American studio to which he is under contract, to go to Germany to direct Jannings first talkie. He saw Miss Dietrich in a musical show in Berlin and persuaded her to play the leading feminine role in the picture. After seeing her work, the American studio signed her to a contract to make talkies in Hollywood.

"THE BACHELOR FATHER" COMING TO MARION

Marion Davis, comedienne, comes to the Marion Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in "The Bachelor Father." Of course it will be a comedy, for that's Marion's forte, but the title also suggests a keen little story.

When the picture was filmed, the players had to eat dinner eight times a day before the dining room scenes were completed. A steam table was maintained on the set with a chef presiding over cooked delicacies tempting to hungry souls but appallingly unsavory after several dinners had been served in rapid succession to the players who were obliged to eat with seeming relish and appetite.

"The Bachelor Father" was a Belasco stage hit, written by Edward Childs Carpenter and enjoyed international success two seasons ago, playing to capacity audiences on Broadway for nine months and repeating a record run in London.

PRISON DRAMA AT OHIO TONIGHT

A prison drama in which the love element is paramount will be shown again tonight at the Ohio Theater in "Numbered Men," a First National-Vitaphone production which was given its initial presentation yesterday and last nght.

While the picture in some respects resembles "The Big House," there are other angles to the plot that makes it different from its noteworthy predecessor.

In brief, the plot has to do with a girl who has promised to wait 10 long years until her lover, who was "framed" into the penitentiary, is released. The part of the girl is played by Bernice Claire, of "No, No, Nannette" fame, while Raymond Hackett is the boy. Conrad Nagel has the leading role as the fellow convict who wins freedom for the boy.

The "Silly Symphony" is one of the best that has yet appeared. A Vitaphone act and Hearst's Metrotone News complete the program.

Commissioners Fail To Supply Funds For County Ager

RURAL SERVICE TO BE DROPPED

$1,500 Cut from 1931 Appropriations by Morrow County; Appeals Are Ignored.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 10—Morrow county will soon join Marion and Wyandot counties as being the only ones in this section of the state without the services of a county agent. The action of the county commissioners in cutting out the appropriation for the continunace of the agent will automatically abolish the office as the state funds received each year are insufficient to continue the work in the county.

In 1930 the commissioners allowed $1.500 for the county agent but in making out the appropriations this year no provision was made for any support. In addition to the county funds the office received $1,600 from the state in 1930. In counties where commissioners make no appropriation the state also withdraws its support.

R. L. Bazler, the county agent, will remain for a short time. His salary will be paid by the state extension service and the work of the office will be carried on for a few weeks.

A delegation of representative farmers conferred with the county commissioners before their decision was made and requested that the county agent be retained.

After hearing the plea that the office be continued the commissioners agreed to appropriate the money if they found it possible. When the general appropriation resolution was passed with no provision for the agent each of the commissioners voted affirmatively on it.

PREPARE FOR INAUGURATION

Ohio Plans Most Dignified of State Ceremonies on Monday.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10 Ohio's capital was preparing today for the most dignified of state ceremonies—the inauguration of George White as governor Monday noon.

At that time the guidance of the ship of state will pass from the hands of a Republican governor, Myers Y Cooper, to a Democrat.

The inaugural ceremony, to be broadcast by radio will begin at 11:30 a. m., conducted from a stand at the west side of the statehouse. In case of unfavorable weather, it will be conducted within the rotunda.

Takes Oath at Noon

At one minute after 12 White will take the oath of office, administered by Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio supreme court. Immediately after the oath has been taken, White will deliver his inaugural address.

Two former Democratic governors of Ohio will attend the inauguration. Former Governor James M. Cox of Dayton and former Governor Vic Donahey have indicated they will be present for the ceremonies.

Early in the afternoon a long parade will move through the business district of Columbus in honor of the new governor's inauguration. Colonel William J. Duffy of Columbus has been named grand marshal of the procession.

Home Town Sends Group

A delegation of 500 from Marietta, White's home, will march in the inaugural parade and will take part in other ceremonies of the day. A special train has been chartered to carry the home town delegation to and from Columbus. The Marietta school band will lead the group in the parade.

White's desire was for a simple inaugural program without large expense to the state. His wish will be observed, it was said, although the parade will be a demonstration on the part of friends and fellow partisans.

ARREST OF YOUTHS MAY SOLVE THEFTS

Colored Boys Implicate Others in Raids on Chicken Houses.

A ring of chicken thieves that has been operating in Marion and vicinity is believed to have been broken up with the arrest yesterday of two colored youths, charged with complicity in the theft of 25 chickens from Franklin Bacon of 920 North Prospect street.

The arrest, made by Deputy Sheriffs Chester Cosgrove and Millard Baldwin, resulted in the implication of several men who are now being sought.

The men are alleged to have done the actual stealing while the boys, Presley Wingo, 11, and Edward Wingo, 14, assisted in cleaning the birds and preparing them for sale, according to Baldwin.

Arrest of the men sought probably will clear up other bits of chicken thievery within recent months, it is believed.

The two boys were taken yesterday to the detention home on Wallace street and later were released on their own recognizance.

The [illegible] will not be lengthy. [illegible] of education here [illegible] day by day regular [illegible] in all schools [illegible] in temperance [illegible] year, Mr. Bowman [illegible]

According to Associated Press [illegible] Alfred A. Will Finds Depression Idea Not New; Overproduction of Red Underwear and Newbys Existed Century Ago

Then Mass Production Recieved Blame for Glut in Lantern Market.

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL all I know is just what I read in the papers. I was just reading a thing here where just exactly 100 years ago there was a long Editorial in the papers asking the people not to get panicky, that they had had a bad year, but that "Fundamentally the Country was sound," and that they looked for things to pick up, that there had been an Overproduction of Overshoes, Red Underwear, knitted sox, and Newby's. You remember Newbys? They was a long nitted thing about the length of a well rope, that you wrapped and rewrapped around your neck and also tied em over your ears.

Then there was too many lanterns on the market, for the amount of night work that was being done. There was also a glut of the Market on Moustache Cups. The Men wasent buying them like the Producers had thought, they was just letting the old upper lip foliage drain right through the Coffee. It told of the evils of Mass production, that you shouldent produce faster than the buying power. If I remember I think the Republicans were in then too. And Oh yes they was going to try and get the Farmer some relief, going to give him some ammunition so he could shoot him some meat to eat. Oh Yes, they was going to work on the roads too. The President has just appointed some Commissions, one too look into and see what the Boys was drinking

Nothing Ever New

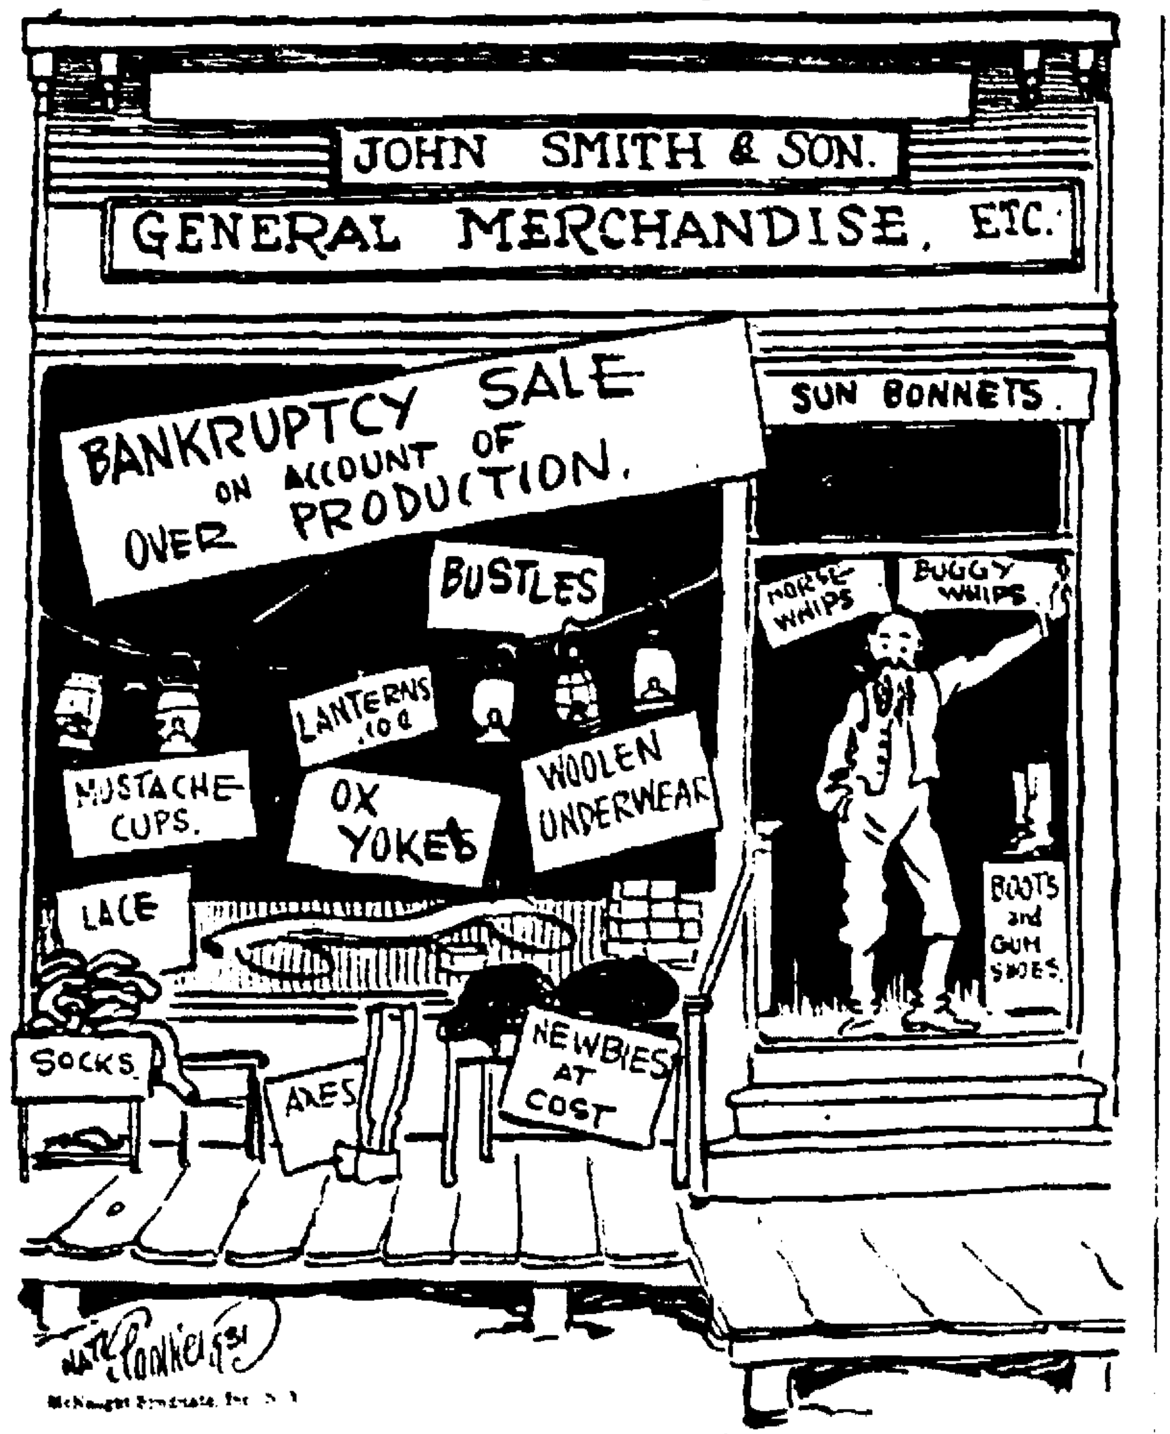
Now all this was just exactly 100 years ago, so you see every 100 years we have what is humorously referred to as "depression." It's always temporary. That it happens every 100 years proves that it will pass away. But it is funny how there is really nothing new under the Sun. I sho was glad to get ahold of this old Article for it proves that we have had these things before and lived em down and we can this one. But regardless of bad times we got the Christmas holidays over in fine shape, and the New Years. Biggest excitement over the holidays was "The Young Pioneers" of New York. They put on a Burlesque of Christmas and the birth of our Saviour, and the Christmas spirit, that must have been mighty gratifying to their parents.

A Christmas in Russia would just suit them fine. But you just try to pay the fares of any of them and offer to send em, and you would have to call out the Marines. The old Communist preaches his doctrines, but he wants to do it where he is enjoying the blessings of Capitalistic surroundings. He preaches against the Pie, but he sure eats it.

Congress adjourned for only a week, so they been back at it again for about ten days. Back at what? Why back at what they was back at before. Some talk of a Special Session after this one is over on March 4. But its not what you would call by "Popular Demand."

Is Country Drinking?

Wickersham Committee havent turned in their report yet, so we dont know if the Country is drinking or not, or if so, what? But as soon as they report why we will get that problem straightened out right away.



A case of overproductio..

Mr. Hoover weathered quite a storm with his hired hands, but seemed to have come out on top and is in better shape than he has been in a good while. The Boys have called him about everything they could think of, and as everybody laughed it off, why they have about decided to let him alone for awhile. McKellar of Tennessee just discovered Christmas week that Hoover had been in England for some time, thats about a record for being behind times.

Got a nice letter the other day from Barney Baruch. I had about a year and a half ago, just before the crash, sorter half way decided to get a little dab of some kind of stock. Everybody all around me was just rolling so in profits, that it made my little joke telling stipend seem mighty little. I had never, or havent yet, got a dollar that I dident tell a joke for, either on stage or paper, so I knowing Barney mighty well, and having a mighty high regard for him personally and as being the last word in business, so in my little talk with him I asked him to invest in his own way a little dab that I though I could spare.

Even Republicans Were in Power at Washington: But They Got Over It.

Well I had to naturally tell him something of my affairs, so I told him what I owed, mostly on unimproved Real Estate. Well he liked to have thrown me out of his Wall Street Office. "You owe that much, and you want to take some of your money and buy stocks? Say you go home and pay your debts. Lord knows how long it will take you to do em. But pay what you can of em. You wont like this advice, no man does. He dont' want to pay his debts as long as he thinks he can make an easy dollar in something else. I wouldent invest a dollar for you anyhow, things are too high, they dont look good. Now go start paying on your debts."

Thats the nearest I ever come to owning stock. (I mean outside of a few Horses, and cattle). Less than a month from the day I was in his office the Bust some. So every few months he writes me and asks me how I am making out on the debts, and how much I got em whittled down.

You know he is kinder the Angel for the Democratic Party, that is if you could call anyone connected with the Democrats an Angel. And he is forever trying to pay em out of debt, so I am writing him and telling him That I was just as good a business man as he is. That he cant keep the Democrats out of debt any more than I can keep myself. So whenever you hear of the Democrats being out of debt I will be too.

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

"THE Big Barn" paints rather a drab picture of life before during and after the Civil war and has to do with the family of Ralph Wilder which has established itself in a valley in New York state. The story is by Walter D. Edmonds author of "Rome Haul."

* * *

RALPH WILDER is past middle age when he decides to build a big barn and the progress of its building is woven into the events which transpire in the Wilder household covering a period of years. The Wilder family is made up of Ralph, his two sons, Henry and Bascom, his daughter Joan, Henry's wife Rose, Mrs. Brinley, one-time governess, Nance, a servant and a number of men servants. Playing a part in the story are Gregory a huge deer and Juno a dog.

* * *

THERE doesn't seem to be a great deal of love existing among the members of the family and yet there is something pathetic in the way they stick together. Ralph rules his household with an iron fist and the household is anything but an inviting place when Henry brings his wife, Rose, home as a bride. Rose does herself proud when it comes to taking over the management of the household but finds herself rather unpopular in the eyes of Ralph's two married daughters who live away from home and return to celebrate their father's birthday anniversary. This however does not alter things for Rose in the affections of Ralph and his family and she learns how much she really is attached to the place when Henry, who for the most part hates the farm and his father's ideas of life, talks of leaving. Rose is drawn more closely to the family when she attends a meeting of some of the village aristocracy and learns through the talkativeness of one of the guests just what they invite her husband to read his poetry to them and what they think of the family.

The reader gets the impression that perhaps old Ralph has a little bit more affection for Bascom than for Henry and one wonders if it isn't just because the son is more like him. Little if anything is thought of the fact that Rose and Bascom find themselves in love and when Bascom returns from the army on a two-weeks' furlough after the report has reached the farmhouse that Henry was killed in action, the old man matter-of-factly suggests that the pair marry. Bascom disappears just before his leave is up and his death remains a mystery to the family. The story ends with a big party in celebration of the close of the war and also the completion of the barn, the latter having been postponed until the close of the war.

* * *

THERE are some gory paragraphs with the killing of a dog and old Gregory and with the same liberal hand the author paints some lovely word pictures in his descriptions of the farmhouse and its surroundings, winter in the valley and the breaking up of the ice in the river.

BOUND OVER

Grand Jury To Get Automobile Theft Case.

Ronald Burke, 19, colored, of Columbus, was bound over to the grand jury from municipal court yesterday on $1,000 bond, charged with auto stealing in connection with the theft of a Pontiac coach last Tuesday night from Phillip Guthery of 450 Delaware avenue.

Probate Judge Oscar Gast today turned Paul Glover, 11, also colored, a companion of Burke and implicated in the theft, over to the Franklin county probate court following his plea of guilty to complicity in the theft. Glover is a ward of the Franklin county court, Judge Gast learned, and for that reason was not sentenced here.

The two colored youths were brought here from Toledo by police after Guthery's car had been recovered there and they had been arrested. According to police, they stole Guthery's car here after they had wrecked a Studebaker sedan they had stolen in Columbus when the car skidded and crashed into a tree south of here on Delaware pike.

SMITH TAX LEAGUE OPPOSED IN BUCYRUS

School and Health Heads Take Exception to Marion Physician's Plans.

Efforts of Dr. Frederick C. Smith of Marion, chairman of the Ohio Tax Reduction League, to extend his organization into Crawford county by appearing in Bucyrus Tuesday night to outline the principles of the organization, met with considerable opposition, and resulted in controversy between himself and several officials, according to reports of the meeting.

Dr. G. T. Wasson, county health commissioner, Superintendent P. J. Folts and several rural school superintendents were present at the meeting to take exceptions to the tax reduction campaign outlined by Dr. Smith.

The organization advocates elimination of the office of county superintendent of schools, reduction of school programs to essential subjects, and several other steps to reduce taxes. Among the steps proposed by Dr. Smith at the meeting in Bucyrus was a reduction in the number of sheriffs. He suggested that one sheriff for three counties would be sufficient.

The organization will attempt to expand itself over the state. Dr. Smith appeared in a public meeting in the courthouse here several months ago to outline the plans of the organization.

Man's Greatest Need

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. J. E. DAVIDSON,
Pastor First Church of the Nazarene.

It is an established fact that sin is existing in the world today. Ever since the fall of man in the garden of Eden sin has had its place in the moulding of human character. To deny that sin exists would be the height of folly. One needs but look about him to see sin in its various forms as a governing factor in human life. Hence man's greatest need today is salvation that saves from sin.

Various means are being promulgated as a remedy for sin. Means that never can deliver one from it. All man made theories, such as are being tried by many religionists today, along with works of benevolence, many of which are splendid in themselves, never have yet reached the sin problem. Until man realizes his utter depravity and feels his need of a Saviour he never can attain to the height from whence he has fallen. Man's greatest need is supplied through a divine agency.

Lasting peace and joy can not be attained by human methods. There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved, but the name of Jesus Christ. He came to destroy the works of the devil. Sin is the work of the devil. Therefore Christ came to destroy sin. Man's greatest need therefore is supplied through the merits of the atoning blood of Jesus Christ. Repentance, consecration and faith will obtain forgiveness and cleansing for all men

Happy is the one who realizes his need, understands the way, seeks the Saviour and finds the blood of Christ efficacious to save from sin and to cleanse from all unrighteousness. For it is through Christ that salvation from sin, man's greatest need is supplied and received.

LOCAL PHONE CASE LISTED IN REPORT

Work of Utilities Commission Under Cooper Contained in Figures of Chairman.

Fixing of local telephone rate and forcing the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., successor to the Marion County Telephone Co., to pay back [illegible] their local customers [illegible] among the accomplishments of the state utilities in the present [illegible] administration listed by Frank W. Chairman Geiger, according to Associated Press reports, said the commission received 1,345 cases in the two-year period and issued 1,[illegible] orders. The cases pending Jan. 1, 1929, were 93 and on Dec. 31, 1930, only 41.

The commission's assistants investigated 51,770 railroad, 2,765 motor bus and 335 motor truck complaints during the two years according to the report.

Once in London a man wagered that the public would not buy real gold sovereigns at sixpence each if they were offered at that price. He tried the experiment and the public refused to buy. America is doing that now.

THERE IS A PUZZLE in Washington, entitled, "To hear or not to hear the Wickersham report."

Congress would like to know what Mr. Wickersham and his friends have to say about prohibition after such long sitting. When a hen has been on her nest for 21 days you expect to hear a chicken peep.

On the other hand, the interests that are our real government don't want an extra session of congress. In their opinion the safest congressman is one at home, far from Washington.

They fear the Wickersham report, for it may stir up questions that will force an extra session.

What would you do in that puzzling affair?

THE PRICE of bar silver drops again. Even the very "best" financial minds, that worshiped the gold standard as fire worshipers did the sun, begin to admit that silver, pale financial moon, requires attention.

Destroying the value of silver has destroyed the buying power of 800,000,000 people, half the population of the globe, including all in China and India.

When you impoverish 800,000,000 of your customers, you do not help business.

SIXTY THOUSAND cattle are slowly crossing the Australian continent. Once in six years heavy rains fall in the interior. Water holes are filled, the ground is covered with grass, as is the Mojave desert in California, when rain falls there.

This is a rainy year and experienced white herdsmen, with aboriginal blacks as "fielders," are slowly driving the great herds south from northern Australia.

Such a trip usually takes about two years, and the "trek" is more merciful than in the old nomadic days.

Tartars drove their cattle from one pasture to another and on the way cut meat from living animals, ate what they wanted and drove them on as long as they could go. There is improvement.

Sermon Topic—Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church has announced his Sunday sermon topics. At 10:30 a. m. he will preach on "Bring the Parchments" and at 7:30 p. m. on "A Good Soldier."

ing worship, young people's meetings and evening worship.

The evangelistic committee in charge of the movement, headed by Rev. George E. Groves, chairman, feels that if this percentage can be had this month, that attendance will be stimulated for the year.

Each church participating sends a report of its attendance at all services to Rev. W. Martell George of 266 Orchard street, secretary of the association, not later than Tuesday at 10 a. m. Results of attendance over the county will be published each Tuesday night during the campaign

A review of last Sunday's attendance shows that in 16 churches over the county there were 3,988 persons at Sunday school, 2,082 at morning worship, 707 at young peoples services and 1,695 at Sunday night services. This report does not include several of Marion's largest churches and many of the churches and entire charges in the county.

Arrest Two Intimates of Alleged Murderer

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 —Detectives said they captured two intimates of Leo V. Brothers, and found "important evidence" in an early morning raid today on one of the apartments where Brothers, held secretly for the murder of Jake Lingel, once lived.

Charles F. Rathbun and Pat Roche, special investigators, conducted the raid, taking their prisoners to a secret office to question them. They refused to reveal whom they had captured, but John A. Swanson, state's attorney, hinted that the arrests were significant.

Telling the Bees

By
The Schaffner-Queen Co.

There is no custom more extraordinary—or more quaint—than that of "telling the bees" about family joys and sorrows.

In Europe — years ago — when the owner of an estate departed his earthly abode, a member of the family hastened to the beehives, knocked, and whispered that a new master was to be in charge—so that the bees would stay!

Rudyard Kipling tells us of the custom in "The Bee Boy's Song":

"Marriage, birth or buryin',
News across the seas,
All your sad and merryin',
You must tell the bees."

Idle superstitions—harmless though they may be—have almost wholly disappeared. Attention is now given to more practical matters at a time of sorrow.

The reputable funeral director of today avoids meaningless gestures and empty ostentation. He stresses, instead, sincere reverence, actual values and genuine helpfulness in all details of his service.

Cooper Declines To Say He Will Not Be Candidate In 1932.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10 — Friends of Governor Myers Y. Cooper today are hoping—some are even predicting—that he again will be a gubernatorial candidate within two years.

This hope was given a boost by the governor himself when he declared he would not say he will not be a candidate for governor again—"because I may be."

Gov. Cooper's declaration featured an address—probably the last one before he leaves office—here yesterday afternoon. The occasion was a luncheon and reception held at the Neil House by members of the Women's Republican club of Ohio, honoring Governor and Mrs Cooper.

OHIO BELL PHONE CASE IS DECIDED

Value of Rate Purposes Set at $104,282,735 by State Commission.

"apparently has accepted the prices paid by the Ohio Bell Telephone company to the Western Electric company for all materials."

Bettman said he would call a meeting of solicitors of the affected cities "for the purpose of determining our next step."

The statewide investigation started in 1924 but had its actual inception 10 years before when a number of small independent companies were bought by the Ohio Bell.

In 1920 a number of companies asked increased rates and when the consolidation into a statewide case was ordered 43 had applications pending. Later five other communities were affected by advance rate applications.

Refund Bonds Posted

During the pendency of the case the Ohio Bell posted two bonds with the commission, the last in 1926, totaling $13,327,668.49 to insure refund of the advances if the rates were found excessive by the state body.

The decision affects 447,909 telephones throughout the state as of June 30, 1925. The commission stated that the number of persons affected in the area was 2,650,159. Since the statewide case started the Ohio Bell has expanded its telephones to 717,832, not including the rural subscribers attached to city exchanges.

In the decision the commission stated that the company was entitled to an income of seven per cent on its used and useful properties.

In conclusion the commission said that "the value of the property is so large and the number of subscribers so great that what may appear to be a large sum is comparatively small in its final effect upon the rate payer."

The decision was written by Chairman Frank W. Geiger and concurred in by the commissioners John W. Bricker and William Klinger.

Editor's Note:—As telephone service in Marion and vicinity is furnished by companies separate from the Ohio Bell, the state commission's finding today affects this territory only in connection with long distance toll charges.

In addition to all toll lines the cities and villages affected by the case include Lancaster, Massillon, Youngstown, Marietta, Middletown, Akron, Barberton, Toledo, Dayton, Cleveland, Piqua, Steubenville, Niles, Girard, Toronto, East Palestine, Pickerington, South Solon, London, Mentor, Sedalia, Washington C. H., Westerville, Canton, Bellaire, Columbus and Springfield.

"TOO LOW," EIDE SAYS

Ohio Bell President Dissatisfied With Commission's Finding.

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10 — "The valuation figure fixed by the public utilities commission is below the value of the company's property devoted to public use," Randolph Eide, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., stated here today in commenting on the ruling of the commission in fixing a tentative property valuation for the company.

"Any lowering of present rates would impair the company's ability to meet its obligations to furnish adequate and dependable service," Eide declared.

"While we credit the commission with a conscientious and painstaking effort to make a just decision, nevertheless the valuation figure is below the value of the company's property."

APPLICATION CUT

Commission Refuses C., D. & M. Request To File Rate Schedule.

The state utilities commission today dismissed an application of the C. D. & M. Electric Co. for authority to file a new rate schedule for large power consumers, according to Associated Press dispatches. The dismissal was based on the grounds that the new schedule provided for increased rates and was not properly presented.

The new schedule of rates sought is an adjustment in the coal clause wherein the rate of large power consumers varies with the cost of coal, company officials say. No official word of the dismissal had been received here today.

The local price of gasoline drops to fourteen cents, a three-year low mark. We true aristocrats of the land can hardly see anything other than menace in that.

Won't it be great when there will be two heavyweight champions of the world — one holding the world title of the world and the other the world title of the New York state athletic commission?

Scarcely a day passes, that the newspapers of the land fail to carry a story to produce a thrill. If it isn't a tale about the White House children, it's almost certain to be a Paulina Longworth story.

Congressman Fiorello La Guardia, of New York, argues that the big cities need part of the drought fund. Why, Fiorello, you certainly haven't the nerve to claim that any big city in the land has suffered from dryness in recent years!

The common pleas court up in Youngstown has denied a retrial in the matter of the Bethlehem Steel corporation against the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, which means that it must either be carried up or the merger is a thing of the past.

Major James J. Tunney is said to have stolen the spot-light from both the incoming and the outgoing governors of Connecticut at the Hartford gubernatorial inauguration this week. Why not? What's a mere governor, old or new, alongside a retired champion heavyweight of the world?

Governor Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, has definitely announced that he will serve out his term as governor and not enter the senate until early in 1932, from which we take it that the introduction of pajamas as senatorial attire will be somewhat delayed.

Jouett Shouse's statement that Herbert Hoover has been "a failure as president" and his prediction of a Democratic victory in 1932 should carry great comfort to Mr. Hoover. Jouett hasn't hit anything off right in years and all his political predictions have gone wrong.

The announcement from Washington that the house joins with the senate to change the Jones five-and-ten law to classify minor prohibition offenses and provide lighter penalties for petty violations is hailed in some quarters as a wet victory, but if it's anything it's a victory for prohibition enforcement. As the law stands, it is so rigorous as in most cases to defeat enforcement.

And now President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, comments on Senator Ashurst's proposal to buy Lower California and part of the Mexican state of Sonora by stating: "Senator Ashurst has resounded one of those eccentricities that have made the Anglo-Saxon famous in his desire for notoriety." Really, we are beginning to feel sorry for the Arizona senator. Even the outside world seems to be on to him.

Very Timely Exposition.

The action of Pope Pius XI in invoking the full power and authority of the Roman Catholic church to uphold the sanctity of Christian marriage and to stamp out the practices of birth control, "companionate" marriage and divorce is generally recognized as the most sweeping presentation of the views of his church on matrimony in many years.

In his encyclical, which is said to be the first of its kind in fifty years of ecclesiastical history, Pope Pius enjoins his bishops to propagate the stand of his church that marriage is indissoluble save by death and that the family is more sacred, within the meaning of the sacrament of marriage, than the state.

No matter what may be the reception of the papal views in the church world outside his church, no matter what the feeling of the outside world on the various subjects discussed by Pope Pius, there must be very general agreement that much of the world, and by this we would be taken to mean the civilized world, has been running wild in recent years in the matter of alleged substitutes for marriage and matters kindred to marriage.

At a time when there is a growing vogue for "trial" marriage and "companionate" marriage and some churchmen, happily but a comparative few, are justifying them; at a time when free love is being openly advocated and unlawful sexual relations are being excused as matters purely for determination by the parties thereto, when the stage and the screen are belittling marriage and exploiting infidelity, glorifying relations made illicit by the laws of God as well as men, such an exposition of the stand of a great church as that which came from Rome this week is very timely.

A Man of Plain, Simple Tastes.

Readers will recall the statement, made to newspaper men by Tom Mix at the time his wife instituted her suit for divorce, that he was just a cowboy with no longing for the luxurious; a man of plain, simple tastes who was utterly unable to keep pace with his wife's longing for the fuss and feathers of Hollywood life. These were not his words, of course, but it is the substance, in part, of what he said.

An interesting light on the plain, simple tastes of this partcular cowboy was developed in the chancery court in Natchez, Mississippi, at the hearing of the $50,000 damage proceeding to which he was made defendant by Colonel Zach T. Miller, owner of Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch shows, who charged breach of contract.

Telegrams between Miller and Mix were introduced in which the cowboy said he would consider a proffer of a weekly salary of $10,000, a private car and accommodations for two horses, a Rolls Royce automobile and an entourage of seven people.

In this light, one can but wonder what the demand of a cowboy with a yearning for luxuries would have been, or what could have been the longing for ostentatious display on the part of Mrs. Mix with which he could not keep pace.

And here we have another light, a light on Hollywood and the movie picture life. The majority of those who have achieved stardom suddenly acquired riches. The most of them had little before their entrance into the business; many of them were poor. Mix himself stated that he had been poor up to the time he was featured, and that he became a very wealthy man. Neither Mix, nor any other movie star, past or present, can be censured for having been poor, or for having acquired riches. But the trouble is that the riches coming so easily to them turned the heads of the most of them and gave them and theirs a false idea of their importance. In other words, the enormous salaries drawn by the majority of them went to their heads, and the artificial lives they led aided in their undoing. Mr. Mix says he escaped this fate; that he would leave the movies to return to his ranch, the same plain man he left it, but the telegrams introduced this week in the Natchez proceeding rather go to indicate that he was bitten to some extent by the self-importance bug.

Were the ill effects of the enormous pay of the movie stars limited to the recipients, the situation would not be so bad, but they are not. The princely salaries paid screen stars are so out of all proportion with the rewards of real life, so far and away beyond the financial return of real ability in most lines of endeavor, that they have a tendency, a marked tendency, to cause discontent among those whose recompense is more nearly commensurate with their merit. The financial rewards of the stars of the screen, of the squared circle and the diamond can hardly do other than cause many to place a false estimate on these pursuits to the disadvantage of the real, constructive things of life. In this is their greatest harm.

From Washington comes the announcement that the Farmer-Laborite membership of the lower house of congress is going to hold a caucus. We take it that Mr. Paul Kvale, of Minnesota, will be in absolute control.

A Racket To Beat a Racket.

From New York City comes an Associated Press story telling how the city slickers who ship out goods not ordered are being outslicked by the rustic population of the Empire state.

The game of shipping out unordered goods is not unknown to residents of the smaller inland cities such as our own, many of whom have received through the mails neckties, handkerchiefs, socks, fountain pens, stickpins or other articles, with a request to return a stipulated sum if the goods sent them meets their approval or to return the goods. Often a hard luck story comes along with the goods to work upon the sympathy of the recipient.

The Empire state farmers have worked out a racket of their own to meet this racket. They sit down and write a letter something along the following lines:

"Goods received, but I do not want them and will be glad to return them to your duly authorized representative on payment to me of a dollar for the storage of the same."

Since the New York farmers got together through their organization and adopted the storage charge plan, it has been taken up by many in the state's smaller cities and villages with the result that those who have been working the racket of mailing unordered goods to residents of the agricultural districts and smaller population centers of that state are said to have become decidedly discouraged.

As the article or articles mailed are seldom worth to the consignor the price asked, few dollar storage charges have been forthcoming. To the consignees, the defect in their racket to meet a racket is that if the goods sent them aren't worth to the senders the storage charges asked, the chanes are that they are worth no more and often are worth far less to those who hold them for storage charges.

What is practically the appropriation of the goods of another can hardly be commended, but there is no getting away from the fact that the receipt of unordered goods with requests for payment or the return of the articles sent is annoying, and would be annoying even if it did not necessitate, to keep one's conscience clear, the mailing back of the goods to the senders.

We note that the Cleveland police have been ordered to rid the Forest City of thugs. The Cleveland newspapers might obviate considerable composition by keeping that announcement standing.

Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, says the talk about his trying to evade a fight with Sharkey is ridiculous; that he is ready to fight Sharkey, Stribling or anybody else the National Boxing commission puts up, but not in New York; that he's through with the New York athletic commission. In the light of the revelations in that suit of a New York minor politician against Tunney, to say nothing of his own experience, he can hardly be blamed for refusing to mix with the New York crowd.

Editorial Opinion.

HYSTERIA OR POLITICS?

Governor Harvey Parnell, the Democratic governor of Arkansas, and Dr. John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, have taken issue with the Arkansas senators over the measure of suffering in the state, due to the drought. Instead of backing up the contention of the senators that the federal government should appropriate $15,000,000 more money than was authorized in the drought relief measure put through before Christmas and that provision should be made for the use of this fund to buy food for the people of the drought stricken sections, these officials say that the situation in Arkansas is not as bad as has been painted and that it is being well handled.

The American people in the past have met periods of depression, with millions of persons out of work and situations of distress due to drought and flood, through private contribution and the aid of the American Red Cross. That has been the American method, instead of calling upon the federal government to spend money to provide food. If the governor of Arkansas is to be credited—and there is every reason to suppose that the governor of a state should be well informed and solicitous for the welfare of the people—the situation is being handled adequately today in that state by the usual American method.

Despite the evidence given by John Barton Payne before the senate appropriations committee, indicating that the Red Cross is able to deal with the situation, aided by the civic spirit in the cities where funds are being raised, threats are made by some of the senators to "filibuster" if the house does not agree to the $15,000,000 increase in the drought relief bill, which, under the terms of the senate amendment, would be avilable for the purchase of food for the needy.

When the congress put through the drought relief bill before it went away for a two-weeks' Christmas holiday, it was announced by the leaders that congress would not think of taking a vacation unless the relief bills were enacted. Apparently, the drought relief so earnestly sought is, after all, to be held up indefinitely if the senate filibuster is carried out. The demand for speed in measures to relieve suffering due to the drought is to be abandoned. The old fight of those members of the senate who take issue with the administration over its relief plans is to be renewed, with no prospect of an early conclusion.

Why is it that statements made by the head of the American Red Cross, Judge Payne; by governors of states, as in the case of Governor Parnell; by responsible heads of city governments, declaring that the unemployment and drought situations are being met adequately are discounted? Is it possible that the desire to cast mud, to show that the administration's program of relief is inadequate, have anything to do with what is occurring on Capitol hill? Or is it because there are members of congress who are hysterical or misinformed?—Washington Star.

A Pioneer in Ohio Forestry.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It is characteristic of the writings of the late Dr. Edward Orton, state geologist and once president of Ohio State university, that he foresaw the state's needs of the future and treated his favorite subjects with almost prophetic vision. Forty-five years ago, before the cities of the state had grown to proportions that made the question of water supply and sewage disposal with kindred questions on the municipal sanitation important, Dr. Orton was advocating much that is practised now, but unfortuntely much of what he said fell upon deaf ears.

He was also interested in soil, and forests in an economic way, and called attention to the fact that these resources must be husbanded and cared for if they were to be preserved for the use of future generations. Just now forestry is receiving attention from the state for the first time in half a century, but little over fifty years ago in a little brochure, in which he classified the native trees with reference to the kinds of soil they grew in, he said:

"The noble forest growth of Ohio is rapidly disappearing. The vandal-like waste of the earlier days is being checked to some degree, but there is still a large amount of timber in growth of which centuries have been consumed—and this is lost annually.

"It is doubtless true that a large proportion of the best lands in Ohio are too well adapted to tillage to justify their permanent occupation by forests, but there is another section, viz: The thin native soils of southern-central Ohio, that are really answering the best purposes to which they can be put when they are covered by native forests. The interests of this part of the state would be greatly served if the large areas in it could be permanently devoted to its use.

"The time will soon come in Ohio when forest planting will be begun, and here the beginnings of it will be made."

Cross-Eyes in Children.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every little child has a right to straight eyes. Children are humiliated and made unhappy if they have cross-eyes. Every child wants to be like the rest of the kiddies. Many a childish heartache comes from some slight deformity like this, a defect which is easily overcome.

The natural dread of its parents as to the danger of an operation has permitted many a child to grow up with no effort to correct the defect. Other children are the victims of the idea that the condition will be outgrown.

If your child begins to show any crossing of the eyes you should consult a competent physician at once. It may be that wearing the proper glasses will overcome the trouble. In any event find out what should be done.

In order to see things as they really are, the rays of light which enter the eyes must focus properly, just as the rays of light entering a camera are focused. On the plate or film, the lens focuses the light. If it isn't properly focused, the picture is blurred and distorted.

Nature has provided the eye with a wonderful focusing muscle. By its action the rays of light are made to focus on the retina of the eye. The image is made clear and distinct.

But, you ask, how is the cross-eyed condition brought about?

Each of us has two eyes, of course. Each eye must work with the other in looking directly at a given object. This action requires perfect team work on the part of the eye muscles. Sometimes, unfortunately, this team work is lacking. Then one eye will wander off to the side, instead of looking straight ahead. The focusing muscle is not working properly and without clear vision the eye wanders.

In a large majority of cases this condition can be overcome by wearing proper glasses. The glasses take the pressure off the focusing muscle and gradually overcome the tendency of the eyes to cross. As the child grows the eyeball grows. There is less and less need for the focusing muscles to act. The vision grows better and at last the glasses may be discarded.

Some times a very bad case of cross-eye may call for a slight operation. It is a simple matter and not at all serious. There is no danger that the operation will ruin the sight, because the cutting is confined to the outside of the eyeball, and not on the inside where the vital parts are. Parents need not dread having it done, because there is no chance of danger.

It is only right that every child should have the best care and treatment of the eyes, teeth and of the entire body. Nowadays the great hospitals and clinics are open to the public and the best medical skill can be obtained there. If you can not afford to pay for the service it will be well done in one of these institutions

When a child begins to show the slightest sign of cross-eyes, the first thing to do is to consult your doctor. If he is not a specialist in eye troubles he will direct you where to go.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MISS M.B. Q—What causes a weak heart? I get weak spells quite often and these last for several days—what would you advise?

2—I am twenty-four years of age and troubled with neuritis and arthritis—what treatment would be of benefit?

A—May be due to several different causes: there may be some infection at the source. A thorough examination will determine the exact source of the trouble and also determine the necessary treatment.

2—These disturbances can usually be traced to infection in the system—and the underlying infection is probably responsible for the heart condition.

• • •

A—No, although there may be cases where they are too acid owing to some disturbance of the system, or a bladder condition. Each system is different and should be studied and treated accordingly.

• • •

SUE M. Q—Would it be dangerous to use nitric acid on a mole?

A—Such blemishes should have proper medical attention and treatment. It is most unwise to attempt treatment unless it has been specifically prescribed. See a skin specialist and he will advise the treatment you require.

• • •

A.B. Q—What do you advise for nervous indigestion?

A—Try to clear up the nervousness by building up the general health. Your indigestion will then improve.

• • •

A READER. Q—Is yeast fattening?

A—No. It aids elimination.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Visitor from Mars.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The world today is full of prophets. On every hand are vaticinators, heralding the coming events which cast their shadows before. In literature and drama it may be an H. G. Wells or a Bernard Shaw; in science a Bertrand Russell or a J. B. S. Haldane; in public life a brilliant dabbler like the late Lord Birkenhead.

Most of these self-constituted prophets concern themselves primarily with the great advances likely to be made, and in many cases clearly indicated, by recent developments in science, invention and discovery.

A primary query with which the self-styled prophet deals is: Is the world progressing? Are we headed toward better things? Is the universe predestined to complete mechanization? Is the race, as a whole, improving; or have we already passed into a stage of gradual decadence, senescence and degeneration?

There is a perennial interest in scientific or imaginative guessing—although it is scarcely fair to speak of scientific guessing. The scientist can make the shrewdest guesses, but he is familiar with the most recent developments of science and invention and can previse the course which progress in any direction is most likely to take.

But after all, even the best of such predictions are merely shrewd guesses, in large measure predicated by the hopes and desires, not less than by the expectations, of the scientist.

Perhaps the best way to take inventory of the course of human development, in an imaginative way, is to make an attempt to see the world, at different periods of the past, through eyes of some Martian visitant, for example. Suppose the Martian pays three visits to the earth, as suggested by E. C. Andrews: first, in early pre-Cambrian time; second, during the whole of historical time; and third, about 100,000,000 or 1,000,000,000 years hence.

During his first visit, the Martian sees the universe as a great inorganic cosmos, the meaning of which he is unable to divine, for there is no sign anywhere of an intelligence comparable to his own.

At the commencement of his second visit, he is able to discover four or five obvious elements—air, water, earth, fire, for example. Substance appears in three forms—matter, intelligence, and some underlying and pervasive activity giving rise both to material and so-called immaterial manifestations.

As he follows the race through historical time, he observes the restless, searching activity of man, as expressed in the scientific spirit, seeking to discover the truth underlying natural phenomena. In spite of war and conflict, of individual with individual, of race with race, of nation with nation, he sees steady progress, which comes both through individual struggle and cooperative effort.

What will the Martian see at some remote period in the future? Of one thing only we may be sure: that a deep, underlying unity will be established throughout the material universe. Time and space, gravitation and electro-magnetism, will all be united in a grand synthesis in a still baffling Cosmos.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Jan. 10—Fifteen years ago I America's champion blusher. For no re at all I would flush suddenly scarlet any any time. If I started to discuss such tr as the weather I was likely to flame int 18-karat blush and run a temperature of Maybe 106.

I can not recall how many times at d parties I would be struggling along to con casually only to have some soandso poin blurt out: "Look, he's blushing!" From hood I answered all the quack ads begin "Are you easily embarrassed?" Was I lady!

If any one in street cars or other p gave me more than a passing glance I immediately on fire. There were times I would be sitting alone reading a book coming upon some passage stressing an a disiac would emit a sudden glow like the of a rocket.

This was not only torturous in youth, extended through early manhood, indeed a few years ago. Then all at once I ru of blushes. I even read an unexpur copy of "Lady Chatterly's Lover" recently throughout remained a statue in chalk and burnt out!

I sat through all the Broadway plays Bert Lahr's medical scene to the carryi on in "Lysistrata" as pale, but of course as interesting, as Eva La Gallienne. I f decided I had grown blase or had use all my red corpuscles.

Age or anaemia had me. Certainl blushing days were over. No longer wou be the pink-faced boob with everybody ing at me pityingly when I happened to my trap. Not long ago I stood right up spoke at a banquet. I was that cured so I thought.

But I had not yet met the type of flap 1931 model—I encountered today. She ph from a reception room downstairs: "I coming up." Just like that. And a few sec later there was a vicious bang at the You know, like a house detective.

In the first place I was not properly at to greet strange ladies, wearing at the mo a set of pajamas, a flannel robe and h slippers. So I told the servant to presen compliments, explain circumstances and press my regrets. I heard him trying to vey the message, but the next thing I she had breezed into the workshop—vi with youth and dewey with girlish fresh And such freshness!

"What's the grand idea," she began, " ing so over-the-river? You are not exact the 400." She drew up a chair, reached cigaret, lighted it and inhaled an ankle drag. She could not have been more twenty, perkily dressed and astonish saucy. Struggling for dignity I inquired: what happy chance am I indebted for visit?" I got that one out of a book.

"Be yourself, old thing. Mama spank!" warned. And added: "Had I announced self you would not have known me a might not have gotten in, so I crashed."

Then she abruptly interjected: "Say, are not such an antique as I imagined. see you slip out your uppers." Either she stark mad or some one was playing a tical joke. Very patiently I told her it a busy day and to state her business.

"That's a bowl of cherries," she cra "Turning out that chatter of yours do take five minutes. I could do it standin one foot in a canoe. And don't go art me—the slave to belles lettres and heigh-ho.

I could see the thick tabloid headlines: ver-Haired Roue Attacks Young Beaut Love Nest," so I let her rave. At length blurred her cigaret, jumped up and popped as suddenly as she came. But before cl the front door, rushed back, arched her coquettishly and baby-talked: "You funny badsy-wadsy man-ikins!" So I'm not blushing again. I'm burning up.—Copyr 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Minstrels of the Balkans.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

In the Balkan countries, particularly in bania, are to be found thousands of itine Gypsies. These are the members of the dering tribes Americans know only thr legends and stories. The Gypsies of United States, traveling in automobiles, making their living as coppersmiths and tune-tellers, are kin to the Balkan wande only in their perpetual restlessness.

The Gypsies of Albania are teh minstrel that country. It is by entertaining the tives of the villages where they pitch overnight camps, that these fascinating romantic people make their living. As we being brilliant performers at dance and s the Albanian nomads trade sieves and kets, tell fortunes, and do secret "doctor in exchange for the products of the pea farms.

The Balkan gypsy, it appears, will do thing but work. While there is food for day none of them worries about what fort the morrow will bring.

To visit one of their camps at night is unforgetable delight. When the peasants their families gather around the visitors' c fire in the evening, the Gypsy men play their violins, flutes and drums the songs have been handed down to them, genera by generation, for hundreds of years.

Generally the entertainment conting the camp includes a trained bear, w dances, executes balancing tricks, bows kisses the hands of people, all at his ma command.

The best treat of all is the bear-and- wrestling match that usually climaxes show. Some times one and some times other wins these thrilling struggles. W the bear is downed in these combats he variably flies into a rage and has to be f bly subdued by the Gypsies.

The Gypsies travel from town to tow gay-colored caravans. During the sum they seldom stay in one place for more one night, but in the winter they, like th of us, must bow to necessity, and they take their quarters in abandoned farmhous barns until spring once more temper weather. Then they go off again on the trail that leads on to what accident or cha brings.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Jan. 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope is not considered a hopeful or promising one. It is particularly menacing to those in the employment of others as well as to all kinds of secret, subtle, or mystical activities. There is a hint of the treacherous and sinister, reacting on the personal interests and welfare.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of secret menace and miscarriage of plans through treachery, deceit or subtle undermining, both personal and business. Employment is under particularly hazardous sway and should be safe-guarded against duplicity. Discretion in all the affairs is urged. A child born on this day may have a peculiar and unfathomable disposition being inclined to the mysterious and curious. It may be disposed to attain its end by strategy or sly methods but will gain little in the employment of others.

• • •

For Monday, Jan. 12

MONDAY'S astrological map shows fairly lively and progressive conditions with the energies well stimulated in the direction of new enterprises or contracts. Those matters relating to writings, promotion, publicity, or negotiations with large corporations or secret orders are auspiciously aspected. Personal affairs also flourish moderately.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a fairly lively and fortunate year, with those affairs pertaining to writings, publishing, promotion and large corporations or secret bodies especially flourishing. Personal affairs are also under promising sway for gratifying and active developments. A child born on this day should be versatile, clever, energetic and capable but may jeopardize its interests by a tendency to rash, impulsive and quarrelsome ways. He should be popular, sociable and kindly.

MacDowell Compositions o Lecture-Recital Progra

MEMBERS and patrons of the Marion Lecture-Recital club have a most enjoyable evening of music in store for them when the organization presents its first program of the post-holiday season Monday night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding.

The guest artist for this program will be Leland G. Nichols, professor of piano and theory at Ohio Wesleyan university, who will play a group of numbers by MacDowell, keeping ot the program theme which will honor this composer. Mr. Nichols' program is the same one which he presented before the Altrurian club in Columbus Monday morning of this week.

Mr. Nichols' interpretations of his MacDowell selections have for a background intimate glimpses into the life of the composer which he learned in an interview with Mrs. MacDowell when he visited the artists' colony founded by the great American musician near Peterboro, N. H., in 1929. The nationally known institution is being maintained by Mrs. MacDowell since her husband's death in 1908. Mr. Nichols was born and reared in Chicago, graduating from Amherst college in 1919. He later returned to Amherst for study in piano, organ and theory, and private teaching in and about Chicago until he was called to Ohio Wesleyan university in 1924. In the summer of 1925 Mr. Nichols went abroad for study at Fontainebleau, France, and also spent two other summers in European travel.

Mr. Nichols' program is made up of representative compositions of MacDowell which belong mainly to his latest and most mature period but which recall impressions, events and characteristics of his earlier days. His first group will include "To the Sea," "From A Wandering Iceberg" and "A. CHAPTER 17

Who Shot Kronberg?

"D[illegible]ou suppose she's killed [illegible]" Jimmy expressed his fear[illegible] Channing as they sat on [illegible] of a taxi seat, cursing the traffic delays.

Channing nudged him, shook his head. There was no sense in chancing possibly sharp-eared chauffeurs.

"[illegible] I'm glad you were with me," he said guardedly. "We'll have [illegible] some fast thinking and decide what's best to do. Luckily, I have a key to Kronberg's private sanctum. He left it with me when he went west—so that I could drop in and look at the plans in connection with the murals. The chances are there'll be no one in the building but the watchman. You get into Kronberg's office through a side door off the street."

They could see the theater's outlines in the block ahead.

"Better get out here," Channing warned. "We'll attract less attention."

Silence reigned in what was to be Kronberg's outer office. A thin yellow line beneath a door at the opposite end of the room guided the two men. Both of them listened. Then Channing deliberately moved a chair. There was no response.

Channing called, "Kronberg, are you there?"

Another crack of light grew visible as the door was partly opened and Vivienne peered out.

Face down, Kronberg was sprawled on the rug. There was no sign of any struggle, but on the floor near Channing's feet was a small automatic. He looked from it to Vivienne, and she slowly shook her head.

"Luckily I'd presence of mind not to touch the thing." She looked from one to the other, and under their startled scrutiny Vivienne lost her poise.

"You don't believe I shot him? You can't believe that!"

"Of course not—" Jimmy started to say, but Channing touched his arm. "Tell us just what happened. Quickly, Viv, for you can't stay here. Someone may come any moment."

Her long nails were cutting into her palms.

"He asked me to dinner and I phoned to ask Aileen if she'd mind."

"From here?" Channing interrupted. "That might prove important—if the police check up."

"No," she replied. "He said he wanted something that was locked up in his desk, so we stopped in—for a moment." Color showed in her cheeks. "We were here about half an hour, and we had been discussing—what he asked me yesterday—whether I'd be willing to appear——"

"I know." Channing hurried her.

"Finally, he caught me in his arms. He's strong as a gorilla—and I struck at him. Then the door flew open. There was another woman—looking in at us. Kronberg swore and turned on her, but she never said a word. She fired one shot—threw down the gun—and was gone before I knew it."

"Is that—everything?" asked Channing.

"No-no," she faltered and faced them with a grim expression. "The woman—who fired—whoever she was—wore a black domino!"

"Good God! Viv—it wasn't—" Jimmy gasped.

"Of course not. Don't you think I would have known? And she wouldn't have run away. Any way—she—couldn't—have known that I was here."

"But someone may—arrive at the same conclusion." Channing was apprehensive.

"That's exactly why I stayed here," Vivienne said.

Jimmy was kneeling at Kronberg's side. "He isn't dead," he told them. He sprang toward the telephone, Channing barred his way.

"Don't put in a call till I tell you. You're right about what might be thought if anyone saw the other woman."

"If it comes to that," Vivienne smiled, "I'll say that I shot him myself. No jury would ever convict me of killing Arnold Kronberg! If whoever it was had not come in—I'd certainly have tried."

Vivienne's story rang true. But Channing and Jimmy were both aware that her statement about the girl in the mask would probably be taken with a grain of salt. Even if it were accepted, the mention of the domino—in view of the whole circumstance—could only point to Aileen.

"Now the thing is to get you out of here," said Channing decisively. "Put her on a train for Philadelphia," he told Jimmy.

"What'll you do?" asked Jimmy.

"Get a hospital first of all," Channing took up the telephone.

"But we can't both desert you!" Vivienne stepped forward him.

"Do as I tell you!" Channing growled. "It's perfectly natural for me to be here. There's no apparent reason why I should quarrel with Kronberg."

Headlines in the morning papers declared Kronberg was expected to recover. He had refused to make a statement. Channing was thankful for that, but he knew if Kronberg lived he probably would seek revenge. There had been no mention of an unknown woman wearing a domino—no finger marks on the automatic.

Channing secretly wondered whether there had been any woman—whether Vivienne had been frank in telling her story.

"The only move is to sit tight," Channing advised.

"But you are bound to be questioned again," Jimmy persisted.

"That's perfectly safe," said Channing. "What possible motive could I have . . . ?"

"For killing him? It might not be hard to establish one—if the police knew what we do."

Channing looked at him narrowly. Had Jimmy guessed what he feared himself—that the links between Channing and Kronberg, Vivienne and Aileen, could be forged quite easily into an accusing chain?

To Be Continued.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. I didn't know where I was again this morning. It is funny when a fella sleeps at home all his life and then sleeps somewheres else. I don't know what it is a fella remembers with but I am glad I have got one. If I would wake up in Banty's house and never remember where I was or where I came from it wouldn't be so funny. I remembered after a while, and then I hopped out of bed and drug Jubilee out, and then Banty's mother hollered for me to go back to bed, she said my goodness, I didn't have to get up so early on Saturday.

I clumb back in bed and didn't say anything because I am only a boy and I am company and have to do what I am told. I laid there quite a while and then I heard the foam ring and I heard her say hello, and then she said, "He isn't up yet. He got up but I made him go back to bed." Then pretty soon she began to laugh, and I heard her say, "Men haven't got any sense. Why don't you unlock the door and go back to bed?" Then I was scairt and got out of bed and began to dress and so did Banty. And his mother was tickled about something, and she said my father had been setting up in his shirttail waiting for me to come so he could unlock the door for me. She said my mother ought to be proud of him. I told her she is. She said maybe she is, but she'd bet his feet were cold when he went back to bed. She said [illegible] father would be home [illegible] But after I had [illegible] tonight and slid all [illegible] had at supper with [illegible] started out to go h[illegible] we went to another [illegible] I went there and [illegible] hot coffee and [illegible] around the [illegible] week [illegible]

Just when my hair was beginning to stand up on my head a gun went off so loud it almost busted the house wide open, and there was a scream, and I heard someone climbing in a window, and then I heard Banty's father's voice calling Banty at the bottom of the stairs, and we both went down in our shirttails, and Banty's father had came home and tried to sneak in a window, and Banty's mother had got a shotgun out of a closet and shot the top out of the window, which he said was better than shooting the bottom out of him, and then she fainted away. When she came two she said she thought it was a burgular and she had the gun pointed straight at him, and then she thought how horrible it would be to kill anyone, so she cracked loose through the top of the window. He was lucky.

"Heart of a Wife"

—BY ADELE GARRISON—

Madge Decides to Take Harry Underwood Into Her Confidence.

THERE was the sound of scuffling, slippered feet along the kitchen floor, and the Chinese who had brought me the preposterous demand for the lock-box Marion's dying grandmother had given her, went despondently out of the door. As I watched his humble, retreating figure, I felt no anger, only a helpless pity. He was like a bullock going to the shambles, I thought, and wondered if his failure to bring to a successful conclusion the errand upon which his masters, the "velly bad men," had sent him might not spell death for him.

I had no time to waste, however, in sympathy for the hapless messenger. His solemn utterance, when I had threatened him and his masters with the police, echoed forebodingly in the empty room:

"So sorry, sorry for me, more sorry for you."

Katie's rap sounded on the door and her voice was anxious, pleading.

"Missis Graham, you all rite?"

"Of course, Katie," I answered with an effort at nonchalance. "Come in."

She bustled in and over to the window "Dere he go, down road, his head hung down like dog shoost got found oudt killing sheep," she announced. "Gee Whiz! Me, I glad you all safe. I vorry my head off oudt dere vaiting."

"You see you had no need to worry," I said, smiling. "Oh! how pretty your trays look. I'm sorry to have delayed your serving."

"They not vait long," she said truthfully. "Dey only shoost coom. You vant me bring stoof in right avay?"

"If you please," I said as I left the kitchen, conscious that if there was anything in the world I dreaded doing, it was going back to the veranda where I had left Katherine and Lillian with my month-old baby daughter. Mine is not a "poker face," and I feared that the eyes of both my friends, keen in perception, would notice the agitation I was trying to suppress

Lillian must not guess the truth, I told myself with a fierce protective instinct for the wonderful big-hearted woman who is so dear to me. Her love for the daughter so cruelly kept from her in infancy and small childhood is perilously near idolatry, and the hint of any danger to the girl, such as the sinister hint of the Chinese signified, would be unthinkable for her.

I knew what I must do, to whom I must appeal, but I must first see that Lillian was so occupied she would not suspect the confidence. One thing was imperative, however, the memory of that terrible time when Grace Draper had stolen Junior—always flashes before me when the word "danger" is spoken or thought of, and an opportune burst of laughter coming up through the floor gave me the chance to find the children without arousing Katie's curiosity, sharpened now to a needle point, because she had no inkling of the errand of the mysterious Chinese.

"I thought Mr. Underwood would take the boys to their basement playroom," I said, and added with the familiar comment which we all use toward our faithful little maid of so many years' service: "You know Roderick and Junior—"

"I know," she said with a ludicrously sapient air. "I vas shoost cooming troo hall ven I hear dem scrapping ofer dot angel baby."

She shot a sly, rueful look at me, and I knew that she suddenly had remembered her chief fault, the one which more than once would have brought me to the point of discharging her were it not for her loyalty and her many other sterling qualities, to say nothing of her efficiency for Katie, in Dicky's parlance, is a "snooper, par excellence," with a penchant for listening at keyholes. But it is always harmless espionage, and I gave no hint of my conjecture that she had stopped and listened uneasily to the "scrapping over the angel baby," the name which she bestowed upon the new addition to our family when she first saw her

"Mr. Underwood took them away before they came to blows," I said lightly, but Katie took me literally.

"Yah! I hear heem, but you take my vordt, dose keeds fight ofer dot angel-baby yet. Goot ting you have prize-fight place down cellar."

I smiled ruefully at her description of the corner of the basement playroom in which Dicky and Harry had planned to teach the boys the rudiments of boxing, but I did not correct her vocabulary I had diverted her mind from the visit of the Chinese, and that was all that I wished.

"I'll just slip down and see what they're doing," I said with forced nonchalance. "Serve your iced tea and fruit punch and the little cakes in five minutes. But first tell Mr. Graham and his mother that you are serving. They are out in the rose garden."

"You bet I do dot." Katie's giggle followed me down the stairs. "Eef dot old vomans no get fruit poonch und cake first ting, my name vill be vet dirt."

I feighned not to hear her, shirking the reproof she so rightly deserved, as I so often have done in the past, and hurried into the basement where I was relieved to find Harry Underwood standing out of earshot of the boys, fixing up a piece of gymnasium apparatus while they played happily with their electric trains.

He looked at me sharply as I came up to him.

"What's the matter?" he asked, with an infectious grin but keeping his voice low. "Dirty work at the crossroads?"
